HOW DOES IT WORK?

- Methionine is an essential amino acid, which means it is not synthesized in humans. It helps breakdown fats within the the liver, lower cholesterol to prevent excess fat buildup, and is helpful in preventing and alleviating fatigue.
- This infusion also includes the three essential Branched Chain Amino Acids (BCAAs) that are isoleucine, leucine and valine. Since they are rapidly depleted from muscles when training, taking them pre-workout can delay fatigue. Taking them post-workout, or with a post-workout meal, will lower muscle damage and feed the muscles faster to keep you in an anabolic state.
- Valine, an essential amino acid, is needed for muscle metabolism, tissue repair, and the maintenance of a proper nitrogen balance in the body.
- Leucine is especially powerful for energy production and providing ATP, which is fuel for your cells.
- L-carnitine transports fatty acids into the mitochondria to be turned into energy and transports metabolic waste out of the mitochondria for removal.
- Vitamin B-12 plays a significant role in the replication of DNA, the normal functioning of the nervous system, and the formation of blood cells. It provides increased energy and metabolism.
